

William Major or Mager - Butcher

The 1841 census shows the Riverhead area to have contained a broad cross - section of Georgian urban society.

William Major, although a tradesman, was visibly laying claim to middle class status by his maintenance of three female servants and one man servant as well as two apprentices.

This was a large and obviously prosperous household and compares well with the more obviously established middle class households such as the Nells and the Norfolks.

UK 1841 Census Returns: Lincolnshire, Louth
Name	Age (male)	Age (female)	Occupation	County of Birth
William Mager*	30		Butcher	Lincs
Maria Mager		30		Lincs
Jane Mager		11		Lincs
Eliza Mager		7		Lincs
Mary Mager		4		Lincs
Ann Aisling		20	Female Servant	Lincs
Elizabeth ???		14	Female Servant	Lincs
Ann King		30	Female Servant	Lincs
George Burton	25		Man Servant	Lincs
John Smith	15		Butcher's Apprentice	Lincs
George Foster	15		Butcher's Apprentice	Lincs
* Also Pigot & Co's 1828 Directory for Lincolnshire, as well as the Padley Survey				